“Rachael has over 12 years experience as a solicitor and barrister in Sydney”

Rachael Doland.

Lee Sames Egan Lawyers & Conveyancers

Rachael Doland is an equity partner at Lee Sames Egan Lawyers & Conveyancers where she practices in the areas of property law and conveyancing, buying and selling businesses, leasing, Wills, deceased estates and estate planning. After graduating in Arts/Law from the Australian National University, she worked for 7 years at the top tier national law firm, Blake Dawson in business and commercial law areas. In 2006, she qualified and worked as a barrister in one of Sydney’s leading commercial chambers in Phillip St. Rachael, a former Woolgoolga High School student, has returned to the area to give her young sons the kind of upbringing she enjoyed. When Rachael was 5 years old, her parents made their own seachange, leaving their Sydney careers behind and, with friends, buying the Arrawarra Caravan Park. Rachael feels fortunate to be able to job share with her husband, Jason Clark, who has legal and accounting qualifications.

For them working together is a win/win scenario, enabling them to continue their careers, apply their legal and commercial skills to help local businesses and individuals and still play active roles in raising their children.

“Being offered the opportunity to buy into Lee Sames Egan was a fantastic opportunity for Jason and me,” Rachael said.

“I particularly value working closely with Peter Sames - a well known and well regarded local solicitor who has been practising in Coffs Harbour for over 30 years.”

Rachael enjoys the range of clients she meets including young locals buying their first home, retirees downsizing and seeking Wills and estate planning advice and investors buying and selling commercial property and businesses of all types and sizes.

The firm has just launched its new website at www.leesamesegan.com.au
